BULLS OWN THE STREET.

STOCKS BEGIN TO JUMP AT THE OPENING AND KEEP IT UP.

Reading Reaches 69 3-4 by Noon and 270. 000 Shares of It are Dealt in-American Securities in Great Favor in London-Gould's Hand Apparent-The Committee

The bulls held high carnival this morning ad forced the disgruntled shorts to desist in their croakings about the financial and comial prospects of the country. The bears heard from but once, and then it were heard from but once, and then it was in the shape of a despatch from Chicago that the St. Paul had reduced rates between Omaha and Chicago from 20 to 15 cents. This bit of intelligence failed to produce the slightest tremor, and prices went lancing up merrily until the bulls themselves, contented with the profits accruing from the advance, started in to realize.

Buch misgivings as were created in regard to the London market by the riotous proceedings in that city were dissipated with the first despatches this morning, which made it clear that American securities were in great favor. Reading came equivalent to 69½. Baturday's closing price hars was 68. This was all that was needed to give life and strength to speculation. White, Pearsall, Wormsers and other leading lights rushed in as buyers and put up prices before the bears had a chance to gather in many stocks. Reading bobbed up to 69½ amid great excitement and pretty much everything else followed suit. Up to noon about 270,000 shares had changed hands, which was the liveliest morning's work for some time.

Eric crossed 30, and even Western Union caught the intection and sold above 79. The latest story about the latter is that Gould has made a dicker with several prominent English banking firms who will proceed forthwith to have the stock listed at the London Stock Exchange. As Gould is desirous of having this done and could not accomplish it himself, the story just alluded 6 finds many believers. If the stock is listed there is little doubt that it will be boomed, and that to make this easy cable rates will be advanced at about the same time. One thing is pretty evident, namely, that Gould is combining both pleasure and business in his European trip.

both pleasure and business in his European trip.

As usual, when speculation is running one way a superabundance of reasons were fortheoming why the movement should continue. According to the gossips the Northwestern railroad war is to be settled up right away, the Vanderbilt roads are to increase their dividends, the Erie is to declare something on its preferred stock, and in fact shareholders generally are to be made happy. While there is a good deal of twaddle about some of the rumors afoat they contribute their quota to the good feeling, and that is all the bulls are looking after interior. S. V. White was quoted as saying that the rise has only just commenced, and after the market advances another ten points or so the present bears will think about turning bulls. Here is pretty strong language even for Mr. White.

Americans in London closed strong at the best prices of the day. The Bank of England gained £70,000 on balance.

Gold is again coming this way. Hallgarten & Oc. have received 80,600 francs from Enrope, making the total imports since July 23 $27,250,000. J. & W. Seligman have advices from their Paris firm of the shipment of 2,000,000 francs by the Steamship Aller.

Counsellor Freland H. Smith took an exception to the rulings of the Court. Then his associate, Luther Emmerson, opened for Todd by saying that the case ought not to be entitled. "The People Sagainst Todd." but "The New York Stock Exchange against Todd." He then went on to argue that there was no more to indicate that the business of Mr. Todd's office was of a gambling character than that carried on in any broker's office on the street. Taking advantage of the term bucket shop "as applied to his client's business he said it was a happy comparison a bucketful as to the great ocean of speculation of the Stock Exchange, but the contents of the ocean and the bucket were the same.

Charles H. Garland, Todd's cashier, was the first witness for the defense. He said that customers would be accommodated with stock if they paid and asked for it.

On cross-examination by Assistant District-Attorney Curdy, the witness testified that the transactions averaged 200 a day, but he would not swear that stock was actually delivered once a day, such delivery not being in his province.
George E. Scott, foreman of the Gold and Stock Telegraph, testified that some brokers used blackboards such as were found in Todd's bucket-shop. He did not know where the wires connected with tickers in bucket-shops came from. Western railroad men complain that there are not cars enough to carry the freight.

the failure of M. Baum, one of the largest operators in the Exchange, who failed on Friday, will meet at a late hour this afternoon. Mr. Baum will be present. He said to-day that he would be able to disprove the charges made against him that his assignment was irregular.

Secretary Powers, in a long interview with Mr. Baum this morning, told him that the committee would expect from him the fullest statement concerning his financial condition.

Alfred B. de Fruer, the assignee, has thus far been unable to form even a partial estimate of Baum's financial condition, owing to the absence of the book-keeper of the insolvent broker, who has not appeared at the office since the assignment was made. His absence is alleged to be due to the sickness of a brother. The committee is reticent with regard to the discoveries which have been made since its appointment on Friday. The meeting this afternoon will be held with closed doors.

A New Style of Tramway. The Aldermanic Committee on Public Works has decided to give General Stone's invention of a new style of horse-car track a trial on Hudson street very acon. The essential feature of the invention is that each track, which is about eighteen inches wide contains three shallow grooves so ar-ranged that trucks and vehicles of any length of axle will be able to accommodate themselves to the tramway, thus doin a way with many of the dangers and inconveniences of the present system.

Once he took a fancy to a red-haired woman who put his wife out into the street. For this he got three months and the woman six. the woman siz.

The Board of Walking Delegates of the Building Trades Unions has discovered that so-called "scab" bricks and cement are being supplied to the Equitable Building by Peck, Martin & Co., who are concerned in the presecution of five walking delegates charged with conspiracy. About 700 union men are employed on the building, and a strike may be ordered among them if the "scab" material continues to be used.
